

Lesson 10

To write clear action (part 3)

Toolkit

Action that is Clear

- What happens in a clear order
- Where and when
- Adjectives to add detail

Anansi the Spider

Long ago a spider called Anansi was fed up of Tiger having all the best stories. He decided Tiger needed to be tricked so he sneaked off to see him in his cave.

"Oh, Tiger!" he called in a sing song voice.

Tiger prowled out of his cave and growled at Anansi.

Anansi slinked across to the beehive. When he got there he sang, "Oh, bees!"

The Queen Bee flew straight out to meet him and Anansi made a plan. "Is it true that bees squabble all the time?"

"No. We work as a team," muttered the Queen Bee.

Anansi tricked the bees into flying into the barrel and slammed the lid shut.

Then Anansi found the big python and called out "Oh, Python!"

Python slithered out to find Anansi. Anansi tricked Python by tying him to a stick!

Anansi took the barrel full of bees and Python back to Tiger. Tiger gave Anansi his stories just as they had agreed.