

This is me!

This activity should be completed by both the adult and the child.

Draw a picture of yourself bellow. Around your picture write the things that you like about yourself and what makes you special. Then switch pictures and write what you like, or think is special about the other person.

