

Using Brackets

Insert a pair of brackets in the correct place in the sentences below.

Melody who had grown even taller in the past few months was virtually unrecognisable with her new haircut.

The song which had been played constantly on the radio was still at number one three weeks after its release.

The previous champion 31 year old Tanya Williams was gracious in her presentation of the trophy.

The winner a Mary Johnson, of Edmonton, North London plans to buy a holiday for her whole family with her lottery money.

The Great Wall of China is ancient building work began on it over 2,300 years ago and is over 13,000 miles long!

Grizzly bears which hibernate for up to five months each year eat a wide variety of foods in order to gain weight.

The country he had just left Australia was so different to Indonesia that he could not believe the two were neighbours.

Harry Houdini who was a world-famous escape artist used to travel to many countries and challenge local police forces to keep him locked up!

The convicted thief he had been imprisoned for stealing money from a bank had tried to escape by digging a tunnel out of his cell.

Tokyo which is the capital city of Japan has a population exceeding 37 million people if the surrounding area is included.

Mr. Wilkins head teacher of the local primary school was one of the first people to cross the fun-run finish line.

Molly who often stays up past her bedtime was so tired after climbing the mountain that she went to bed without any dinner!

Using Brackets

Insert a pair of brackets in the correct place in the sentences below.

Melody (who had grown even taller in the past few months) was virtually unrecognisable with her new haircut.

The song (which had been played constantly on the radio) was still at number one three weeks after its release.

The previous champion (31 year old Tanya Williams) was gracious in her presentation of the trophy.

The winner (a Mary Johnson, of Edmonton, North London) plans to buy a holiday for her whole family with her lottery money.

The Great Wall of China is ancient (building work began on it over 2,300 years ago) and is over 13,000 miles long!

Grizzly bears (which hibernate for up to five months each year) eat a wide variety of foods in order to gain weight.

The country he had just left (Australia) was so different to Indonesia that he could not believe the two were neighbours.

Harry Houdini (who was a world-famous escape artist) used to travel to many countries and challenge local police forces to keep him locked up!

The convicted thief (he had been imprisoned for stealing money from a bank) had tried to escape by digging a tunnel out of his cell.

Tokyo (which is the capital city of Japan) has a population exceeding 37 million people if the surrounding area is included.

Mr. Wilkins (head teacher of the local primary school) was one of the first people to cross the fun-run finish line.

Molly (who often stays up past her bedtime) was so tired after climbing the mountain that she went to bed without any dinner!

Using Brackets

Insert a pair of brackets in the correct place in the sentences below.

William Shakespeare born in 1564; died in 1616 is possibly the most famous writer in history.

Sangheeta 14 years old was the first high school pupil to complete the challenge.

Silver which is the metal that best conducts electricity is not used in electrical wires because it is too expensive.

Sir Ranulph Fiennes polar explorer and adventurer once ran seven marathons on seven continents in seven days!

Lydia who had always wanted to be a circus acrobat was overjoyed to find out that her birthday surprise was a trampoline!

The first place he had tried London was too expensive to live in, so he had been forced to look elsewhere.

Johnny Depp who won a Golden Globe Award for his performance as Sweeney Todd originally wanted to be a musician.

Justin Crewes an American by birth had been living in Canada since he was eighteen.

Blue whales which are the largest animals to have ever lived have throats which are only wide enough to swallow a grapefruit.

Gary Lineker former England footballer once had salt and vinegar crisps renamed 'Salt and Lineker' in his honour!

The Olympics which were held in London in 2012 take place every four years.

Rosa Parks who has been called 'the mother of the freedom movement' became famous when she opposed racist law by not giving up her seat on a bus.

Using Brackets

Insert a pair of brackets in the correct place in the sentences below.

William Shakespeare (born in 1564; died in 1616) is possibly the most famous writer in history.

Sangheeta (14 years old) was the first high school pupil to complete the challenge.

Silver (which is the metal that best conducts electricity) is not used in electrical wires because it is too expensive.

Sir Ranulph Fiennes (polar explorer and adventurer) once ran seven marathons on seven continents in seven days!

Lydia (who had always wanted to be a circus acrobat) was overjoyed to find out that her birthday surprise was a trampoline!

The first place he had tried (London) was too expensive to live in, so he had been forced to look elsewhere.

Johnny Depp (who won a Golden Globe Award for his performance as Sweeney Todd) originally wanted to be a musician.

Justin Crewes (an American by birth) had been living in Canada since he was eighteen.

Blue whales (which are the largest animals to have ever lived) have throats which are only wide enough to swallow a grapefruit.

Gary Lineker (former England footballer) once had salt and vinegar crisps renamed 'Salt and Lineker' in his honour!

The Olympics (which were held in London in 2012) take place every four years.

Rosa Parks (who has been called 'the mother of the freedom movement') became famous when she opposed racist law by not giving up her seat on a bus.